

12th October 2022 walk. Trelissick a 4.5 mile walk through lovely autumn woodland down to the Fal River and Roundwood Quay.

The weather was perfect not too hot but interspersed glimpses of the sun. Halfway along was a lovely view of the Fal and Trelissick estate. At roundwood quay we managed to make out the ramparts of the Iron Age fort, imagining what it must have been like at that time.

The 3 four legged participants enjoyed being able to spend most of the time off the lead. Sue and I finished off the walk with a lovely coffee at the National Trust cafe, thank you Sue.
